

Help build the future of community good.

Bring your judgment, relationships, and commitment to a small nonprofit with a lasting mission.

Why BGP. Why now.

Founded in Seattle in 2012 by Apollo Rimando after his own experience with hunger, The Be Good Project brings people together around food access, learning, volunteerism, and practical technology. Our history includes volunteer-led food programs and youth leadership work in Seattle and the Philippines.

We are small and not yet fully funded. Volunteer dedication and community trust have helped sustain the work through periods without funding. Our next chapter needs stronger fundraising, thoughtful oversight, and realistic priorities.

Where your experience can help

01 Fundraising & relationships

Help shape a funding strategy, cultivate donor relationships, make introductions, and support grant and partnership outreach.

02 Finance & governance

Contribute to budget review, resource planning, organizational policies, financial oversight, and responsible decisions.

03 Community & strategy

Bring lived experience, community relationships, communications, technology leadership, or nonprofit operating experience.

You do not need every skill listed. We value complementary perspectives, practical follow-through, and a willingness to learn.

A working commitment to the mission.

Prepare and participate

Read materials, ask useful questions, take part in decisions, and follow through on agreed responsibilities.

Build sustainable support

Make introductions, support fundraising, and advocate for BGP within your networks. Bring the contribution that fits your strengths.

Protect community trust

Respect confidentiality, disclose conflicts, and consider dignity, privacy, access, and responsible use of resources.

Keep priorities realistic

Help connect available resources with achievable goals. Ask how progress will be measured and how the board can best support the work.

Explore the fit before accepting

Discuss current board needs, meeting cadence, term length, expected time commitment, fundraising responsibilities, and the selection process. Any personal giving expectation should be discussed individually; this brief does not establish a fixed minimum.

Start a board conversation

Email a short introduction, your connection to the mission, and the experience you would like to contribute. A short bio or resume is welcome.
